The Unanimous Declaration

of the Senior Class of 1953, C. H. S.

When in course of school events, it becomes necessary for the Senior Class to dissolve the educational bonds which connected it to the other classes, and to assume the duties of citizenship for which their school life has prepared them, a decent respect to the opinion of the other classes requires that they should transcribe this history leading up to their graduation.

We, the Senior Class of 1953, entered the schools of C.H.S. in the fall of 1941, feeling a bit apprehensive but eager to begin our education. Sam Brewer (a ladies' man from the start), Roscoe Limbaugh (strong man of the class), Bobby Limbaugh (the baby face), Shirley Traylor (artist of the class), and Charles Watters (slick nick) were among the new first-graders that were lost.

When they had reached the last year of grammar school they were joined by Omie Wallis, James Hill, Virgina Hollis, Leon Edgeworth, Celia Limbaugh, Charlotte Thompson, Eugenia Vincent, Vivian Presley, Hellon Bean, Margie Parker, Charles Maddox, Patsy Wilson, Carroll Hurst, and Dorothy Cleckler. The jump from grammar school to junior high was a new and divulging experience for the class. In the ninth they were joined by Hearal Guess, Gerome Henson, Delano Lee, Glenda Bailey, Barbara Owings, Faye Kidd, Ann Kidd, Mary Ann Grice, Rebecca Breedlove, Gloria Armbrester, Carolyn Shoemaker, Freida Rogers, Helen Edwards, Glen Alexander, Neil Templeton, Lamar Hall, Neil Reeves, Thomas Tyler, and Genie Gardner.

During the last senior years, the class adopted Donald Bacon, David Bassett, John Beck, Margaret Bennett, Betty Lou Lyle, Carolyn Mauldin, Emily Cliett, Kathleen Cox, Sally Green, Sara Hardeman, Jeanette Wallenfang, Betty Bell, and James Hart.

And for the support of this declaration and with a firm reliance on what the future holds for us, we mutually pledge to each other our Lives, our Fortunes, and our sacred Honor.

Charles Maddox

Last Will and Testament

We, the Senior Class of 1953, being in our right mind, do bequeath and bequit, leave, give and get rid of the following, to members of the Junior Class-----to put in our high place, these lowly creatures.

Glen Alexander leaves to Jeff Coleman, his love for Sylacauga majorettes.

To Ray Cooper goes Lamar Hall's title as "coach".

Robert Reeves wills his fine physique and figure in pistol leg britches to Buddy Carroll.

Neil Templeton leaves his reducing routines to Hog Giddens.

To Jimmy Early goes Thomas Tyler's marvelous knowledge of English.

Gloria Armbrester leaves her interest in business establishments, namely: drug stores and news stands to Doris Ann Cobb.

Betty Bell leaves her box of candy coated gum to Fay Daniels.

Rebecca Breedlove sadly gives to Kay Frances Lee, her love for C.H.S.

Dorothy Cleckler leaves to Dorothy Abrams, her interest in Vincent.

To Dorothy Hightower goes all of Kathleen Cox's spare knowledge.

To Jack Jones goes Sally Green's excuses for being late.

Mary Ann Grice leaves her extra copy of "Florence Nightingale" to Jimmie Culbertson.

Sara Hardeman's schemes for getting rid of the "unwanted" goes to Shirley Dunn.

Virginia Hollis wills to Jean Leach, her pleasing disposition.

Faye Kidd leaves her address book to Helen Oliver.

To Juanita Rorie goes Barbara Owings' ability to develop and keep a figure.

Margie Parker leaves her school-girl complexion to Georgie Fay Rich.

Vivian Presley leaves to Jewel King, her ability to make cranberry sauce out of china-berries.

To Ann Parker goes Charlotte Thompson's ability to save matches.

Helen Edwards leaves to Shirley Mann, her dignified ways.

Betty Fannin's tremendous height goes to Johnnie Favors.

To Doris Jean Burnett goes Genie Gardner's ability to get along with the majorettes.

Donald Bacon's ability to whine his way out of things goes to Richard Weaver.

All the chewing-gum under Margaret Bennett's desk goes to Shirley Bassett.

To Leonard Sanders goes Hearal Guess' ability to talk the teachers out of sending him to the office.

James Hill leaves to Ancel Norris, his curling irons.

Carroll Hurst leaves all cigarette butts on the campus to Wayne Willis.

Delano Lee's Tony Curtis look goes to Clarence Lucas.

To Richard Owens goes Bobby Limbaugh's manly ways.

Ann Kidd leaves her technique to anyone who can use it.

Glenda Bailey leaves her knowledge of railroads to Billie Jean Bassett.

John Beck's ability to get a head start in the medical world goes to Tommy Elliott.

David Bassett leaves all talents, knowledge, athletic ability, and what ever else he might have gained from the Senior Class of '53, to his brother, James Lee Bassett.

Shirley Traylor and Carolyn Mauldin leave their like mannerisms to Linda Lyle and Audrey Shoemaker.

James Hart and Roscoe Limbaugh leave their ability to get married when, and to whom they want to, to Franklin Bentley.

Charles Maddox leaves to George Pate, his 1/9 interest in the Shoemaker family.

To Chalmers Murphy goes Betty Lou Lyle's A's in hopes that he might be able to use them.

A combination of Patsy Wilson's quiet ways, and Hellon Bean's loud ways go to Barbara Dillard.

Celis Limbaugh leaves her love for housekeeping to Lillie Mae Trucks.

To Carolyn Lucas goes Thelma Maxwell's ability to catch a man.

Freida Rogers leaves her ability to go steady to Shirley Randall.

Sam Brewer leaves to Stewart Burkhalter, his jokes.

Carolyn Shoemaker leaves to Gene Owings, her roving eye.

Charles Watter's ability to be heard at all times goes to Martha Bentley.

Eugenia Vincent leaves her book of air-mail stamps to Shirley Finn.

Jeanette Wallenfang's southern accent goes to Tinsley Sammons.

Omie Wallis' position as head jerk (soda) at Hagans goes to any broke soul.

Emily Cliett's love for algebra goes to Philip Braswell.

Gerome Henson leaves school to anyone who wants it.

To Norman Payne goes Leon Edgeworth's flirting ways.

Now, we, the Senior Class, just leave.

Ann Kidd

Prophecy

Ladies and gentlemen: For the first time in history a class reunion was held on Mars, and I was invited to tell you about it. Part of the transportation was furnished by John Becks' Super Jet XX rocket ship which he invented himself. Our space suits were made by the very capable designer Emily Cliett. Some of the people to get on at the first stop were Neil Templeton, who sings commercials about the wonders of Cosmo Chewing Gum, and Donald Bacon, the manufacturer of the new wonder drug, "Aches and Pains" aspirin, especially developed for ailing football players.

At the second stop, the glamorous Genie Gardner got on board. She leads the band at Slipaslurp College, where Delano Lee has the job of polishing the majorettes' boots. He just loves his work. Betty Fannin, the famous movie star who plays at all the drive-in theatres, had some sad news to tell us. She says that one of our old class mates, Glen Alexander, was disappointed in a deep love affair and went back to the woods where he now practices the manly art of hog calling. While we were thus engaged in conversation we looked out the window and happened to see Roscoe Limbaugh digging up cotton stalks in space and Lamar Hall fishing for shrimp with a baseball bat 30 light years ago.

At this point we found that our fuel was low and we stopped at Carrol Hurst's Fisson Filling Station, where you can get a complete uranium change in five minutes. The place was easy to find because it was in the first cloud bank to the left of James Hart's tavern.

We had just started on our way again when a flash of light and a puff of smoke streaked by; but we were not alarmed because we knew that it was only Charles Watters, demon of the speedways, followed by Carolyn Mauldin, the undertaker who always has an eye open for business.

Our attention was riveted back inside the ship by the sound of Barbara Owings, who had made millions on her latest book, "How To Get That Streamlined Figure," picking an argument with Vivian Presley, inventor of the Cosmo reducing method. She believes only in the two-way stretch plan. This argument was shocked into silence by the sight of Sally Green whizzing by on her jet propelled motor scooter. She was late for work again at Charlotte Thompson's cheeseburger stand and almost ran into the anti-gravity space sign announcing that Leon Edgeworth was running against Robert Reeves for the post of President of Mars.

Then Kathleen Cox, who has won the title of Miss Champion Pancake Flipper of the entire universe, turned on the tele-radio. We heard an advertisement for a shoeshop in Childersburg. Its owner is Carolyn Shoemaker who is the best shoemaker in the world. We were disappointed when a fuse was blown and we could not hear David Basset sing classical music and light opera on his program over station WACKY in Cincinnati. But Thomas Tyler, who still makes his own, entertained us by telling about the good fortune of some of our old classmates. He informed us that Glenda Bailey is queen of the dance in the flying saucer, Cabaray, where she does a tripsneaze act three times a day. He also told us about Hellon Bean who tours the universe teaching speech classes how to give "The Night Before Christmas" in choral reading.

We were just thinking about how well most of our class was doing when we heard the jets of the ship stop charging and we knew that Brush Maddox, our navigator, had fouled up the controls. A moment later we felt a terrific crash and felt ourselves bouncing around on the inside of the ship which fortunately was made of foam rubber. We had crash landed on Mars and 30 seconds later everyone except Gloria Armbrester, the recruiting officer for the U.S. Strato Marines was found unhurt. Atomic radiation had caused all her joints to bend backwards. Hearal Guess, the circus strong man, carried her to Ann Kidd's Chiropratic Clinic where she was given an adjustment. The head nurse, Mary Ann Grice, used hipmotism which cured her instantly.

With this taken care of, we went on to the beautiful oxygen conditioned motel where we were going to stay that night. It was owned by Bobby Limbaugh and Sam Brewer, two very prominent business men in this day and time. We unpacked and then went on to the Grand Plaza, a huge assembly hall where our reunion was held.

There we met all our class mates we had seen during the day and all the others except Shirley Traylor who had to stay home and take care of her bicycle shop. It was amazing how many famous persons came from our class; Jeanette Wallenfang is the owner of the "Little Galaxie" school of voice. She teaches movie stars to talk with a Southern accent. Margie Parker manufactures holes to go in doughnuts and Eugenia Vincent puts the outside around them. Gerome Henson plays football at Bryants in Tuscaloosa and Freida May is still cheering him on. Omie Wallis wrote a book which she called "The Fog" just after she finished high school and this year she finally persuaded the world known publishers, Virginia Hollis and Rebecca Breedlove, to publish it.

We were having a swell time at the reunion finding out such facts as that Thelma Maxwell and Sara Hardeman were part owners in the Sneaze Snuff Company and that Helen Edwards was a happy little housewife and the mother of seven children, still living in our old home town on earth. Then James Hill, the famous toastmaster reminded us that we had to get up early the next morning in order to catch our rocket back to earth. After this the party broke up.

The next morning coming back to earth Faye Kidd and Margaret Bennett, the two space guides got lost in the fog; but never fear, they were rescued by one of our best anti-gravity policewomen, Patsy Wilson. She received an automatic controlled robot, made by Dorothy Cleckler, as a reward for this brave deed.

When we got back to earth and I started thinking about how all my class mates had made something of themselves, I decided that it was time for me to quit sponging off my parents; so I am going to go out and look for a job tomorrow. Why knows, maybe I can get one as janitor on this telecast show!
